Dear Ethel,

I'm writing to tell you about something that happened yesterday. I get up at the usual time – about 10am – have a shower and make breakfast. I eat a big bowl of cereal and some toast and watched TV for a while. Then I go into the kitchen where I hear a funny noise. I think it come from behind the cooker. I get my toolbox and moved the cooker out of the way.

The noise get louder but I couldn't see anything. I ring my uncle to ask his advice. He said that he think it could be a gas leak. When I hear this I just panic! I put the phone down, run outside, get in my car and drive to the local police station. I tell them about my gas leak but the constable lose his patience with me. He said that I should have phoned the gas company. He wrote his report, then ring the gas company for me.

Then I remember that my house doesn't have gas – only electricity! I feel really stupid and know that the constable would be angry with me for wasting his time, so I run out of the police station while he be still on the phone. I go home to try to find out what the noise be. On the way I buy a newspaper and I read about an escaped llama that break out of the city safari park last Wednesday.

When I get home I put my key in the door, turn it, go inside and straight away hear that funny noise again. I hold my breath and opened the door slowly. Guess what? I find the llama hiding in my cupboard! I let him stay and he sleep in my garden last night. The snoring be so loud! This morning I take him back to the safari park. They be really pleased to see him again and give me a reward of £50!

Hope you are well. Write soon and let me know how you are.

Your friend,
Alan
